Consulting

Many companies today are facing dilemmas...

How to find a consultancy
they can work with successfully but avoid being stuck with once the job is done.

SigmaField Consulting

A COLLABORATION OF INDEPENDENTS

Such companies are indeed rare. There are few teams of true experts in their respective fields, who are able to work collectively and collaboratively on specific projects. Fewer again who then won't linger within the client's environment, making work, beyond the completion of the assignment.

SigmaField Consulting offers a truly different approach to working with clients. It can provide the talents, expertise and experience of a group of successful independent consultants who collaborate on assignments when the breadth of delivery is diverse and greater than can be provided by an individual skill set. This collaboration is possible as the members know each other well and understand how to work together effectively. The members of SigmaField form a concentrated team around a client's assignment to provide the required skill-base then disband as an entity upon completion of the assignment.

SigmaField Consulting is a virtual consulting practice that works with clients on specific assignments. It has no interest in large conventional projects as it has no direct employees, nor overheads, nor the motive to arbitrarily expand or extend assignments. As each member of SigmaField has an established successful practice in their own right, they only come together as a complementary group on specific value-add projects. The members of SigmaField offer world-class services in each of their core business areas, including:

- Business Planning
- Business Project Management
- Business Operational Management & Process
- Facilitation
- Human Resource Management & Process
- IT Strategic Management
- IT & T Service Sourcing
- Practice Management
- Strategic Planning

Together, the members of SigmaField have developed a number of offerings, including The Winning Set, The Strategy Game, Line of Sight and Projectus, each of which assists clients during implementation. Clients for whom the members of SigmaField have collaborated on joint assignments include RoyalSunAlliance, QBE Investments and CPA Australia. Other clients of the Sigmafield members include Apparel Group, BP, the Australian National Audit Office, the Australian Bureau of Statistics, The Issues & Images Group, Pillar, Pioneer Concrete, Schering Plough and VicRoads.

The collective experience of the members of SigmaField across the private and public sectors, at executive and Board levels over many years, ensures clients are provided the highest standard of professional service. This vast experience has been gained by the Principals of the SigmaField members working directly with clients, as independent consultants, across Australia and internationally.

As independent consultants, clients and prospective clients know that who they see and meet during pre-assignment discussion will be the consultant or consultants who will deliver the work.

The reputation for delivering excellent results is the major asset of the members of SigmaField.
